

ULUSLARARASI TEMSİL IFALPA BELGESİ

Belge: IFALPA Daily News – 18 January 2013

Tarih: 06.05.2013

Kaynak: IFALPA haberleri · talpa.org

Dear Colleagues,

The IFALPA Daily News is now available online.

Here are today's top headlines. To read more, click on the title:

Military jets escort Alaska Air plane to Seattle

Two US fighter jets were scrambled on Thursday to escort an Alaska Airlines plane to Seattle after the FBI received an anonymous tip, apparently unfounded, that a hijacker was aboard, officials said.

TEM course in Casablanca a success

From 14 to 16 January, IFALPA and host member association AMPL – Moroccan ALPA, jointly held a Threat and Error Management (TEM) Course in Casablanca, Morocco.

Dubai Airport nearly refused to hang photo of female co-pilots

When was the last time you flew in a plane piloted by a woman? What about two women, both pilot and co-pilot? It's possible to not even know since passengers rarely see their flight crews much anymore, but they are up there. Trust us.

Texas school teaches new airline pilots

Pilots in training from half a world away have found a home here as they earn their wings, and now the flight school has plans to expand.

Airbus close to launching A320 sharklet retrofit

Airbus expects to be able to launch a retrofit programme for sharklet wing-tips on the A320 by around March-April, having determined the technical requirements for the modification.

TSA seeks to significantly expand Pre-Check screening program

The US Transportation Security Administration (TSA) wants to expand the Pre-Check expedited screening program to include a wider range of passengers. Members of Congress would be included.

London Stansted attracts three final bids

London's Stansted airport has attracted three final bids each worth about GBP£1 billion (USD$1.6 billion), three sources close to the matter said.